Stonerook gave me an idea so I will start to build a FAQ for the custom scripts now. I will keep adding to it over time so it will be an ongoing project but it will be quite useful to people wanting to impliment custom scripts in their maps.

As for westwood scripts none of them are documented at all but some tutorials do refer to using them. You just have to play around with them to see how they work but it can be time consuming. If you are going to create a library it may be best to do it for the WestWood ones as these are the ones we have the least informtion about.
