Although, flyingfox. They'd have to cycle through the list to find Deth_River. And if anything else catches their attention then they could vote for it. Although madx said vote for the map, they still have the choice not to vote if they see something else.

I probably wouldnt have any complaints if you asked those 225 people to vote for your map. If they want it in there, so be it. They'll be the ones playing it after all. They'll want to be able to go onto WOL and see the map in more server's map rotations. I like the map myself, and I voted for it, only because its something different. It's one of my favourite maps on that list, and I have several of the other maps on that list anyway, tropics included.

Also, Staude, you do look like a retard by not typing correctly. I even agree with Aircraftkiller: AircraftkillerSince your only means of communication with us is typing in this forum, your intelligence is judged on your arguments and your ability to spell simple words out. You're unable to spell correctly eight times out of ten, and the times that you do spell something right, you end up writing "u" or another incorrect version of a word.
It doesnt even take THAT much effort to press a few extra keys. Typing badly only makes more people skip your post because they can't be bothered to sit there and try to decrypt what you're trying to say.
