Subject: Renegade No Longer Starts up
Posted by Kanezor on Wed, 25 May 2005 20:00:36 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Spart2090it's kinda ridiculous to kick people just becuz they havn't downloaded your program when its not that good. Instead of kicking someone cuz they don't have it you should setup a voting system for when you suspect when someone is cheating, but only people that have rengaurd can vote, that way you'll still get downloads but you'll also have more people participating in games. well thats just my opinion i hope you can take it seriously.It only kicks people whom are not running RenGuard under one (or both) of two instances:
1) The server is full-RenGuard, meaning that every user must use it (which usually is NOT the case)
2) The user has previously been voted off by the very same method you've mentioned: three RenGuard users requested that the user being kicked be required to use RenGuard.

As hinted at above, most half-RenGuard servers (eg, servers that don't require players to use RenGuard) have a command that allows other players to vote to require a player to be forced to run RunGuard, usually !forcerg < playername >.