

---

Subject: Re: Ban nopic?

Posted by cheesesoda on Tue, 11 Oct 2005 22:07:22 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

DrasticDR wrote on Tue, 11 October 2005 16:59Deadfive, I remember when you joined this forum. Everyone hated you for what you posted. I personally didn't mind what you had to say regardless if you made over 5 topics in one day. But the way people reacted to you was wrong and they should've solved the problem themselves by ignoring you - as they should with nopic. Deadfive grew out of it in a matter of a month or so. Nopic has been this way for what has it been now, 2-3 years? Sure, the name "nopic" and his current variation of that name haven't been around for nearly as long, but remember "taslayer"? That's who we so unaffectionately call "nopic". He is/was a cheater, problematic, and has been nothing but a nuisance. Sure, we've had plenty of other nuisances, but they've at least left or grew up (for the most part). However, this isn't the case with nopic.

DrasticDR wrote on Tue, 11 October 2005 16:59Those clowns (or were they called e-terrorists?) caused more harm to this forum than nopic has. When we realized this, we stopped, did we not? We actually had a decent mission to our posting, though it was poorly thought out and executed. Not to mention it didn't last more than 3-4 days. We haven't been nuisances for years. Each separate individual, you can disagree with (such as myself, as I know how much you LOVE me ), however, as a group, we didn't do anything for any lengthy period of time.

---