nopic01| wrote on Fri, 14 October 2005 15:53ok bye me and yet I don't really mind I mean for the last couple weeks I haven't really been here I came here today because I was bored and I figured id post a topic on my new discovery
http://sourceforge.net/projects/winmac
Windows Mac osx
 and I come here and the first topic I see is should we ban nopic well I don't really mind you can go ahead and ban me even if u banned my ip I could come back but I wont I feel that there is no point to this place just to reflect yes I know I've cheated and that was wrong I was probably the most idiotic person in the word then I am trying to rebuild my trust with all of you and I notice this I did not vote no I voted yes go ahead ban me if you really hate me that much all I ask is post at least three things I have done to you I don't mind I'm into other things now I actually own 2 web hosting businesses I posted one of them but seeing the responses I will not post the other my friends and I have start a project that may help the world we have created a wireless internet based off ham radio I know I'm not the brightest tool in the shed but I have had allot of problems in my life my ending note in self is goodbye I will keep all of you very close to my heart   keep you friends close but your enemies closer that is all I want to say also my name is R.J. Flotron son of mark Flotron founder of flotron.com and y grand father was Paul Flotron Google 390th bomb squad you will see him he has past away but he will live forever

Ouch.

I voted yes.