

---

Subject: Re: XWIS

Posted by Doitle on Thu, 20 Oct 2005 03:06:00 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Oh if things were so simple though luv2pb. In the creation of this topic Belski obviously was attempting to enlist the collective memories of those who came before and read through the 8 page post. For an answer to such a simple question to be doggedly pursued through a post of such magnitude would be inefficient bordering on inefficaciousness. Such an absurd requirement on our fair poster would undermine the very values and pillars on which the bulletin board system was founded. We would be hard pressed to find such a fine display of pluck and gumption in most of our every day lives, yet here we are faced with it in effigy and we reprimand it. How grovenly we hold the human spirit in today's society. That we should chastise those worth laudation, and shower kudos on the perpetrators, killing the presence of life in our fair community. If we are to expect any sort of enjoyment from this fine endeavor we need to stop lashing outwards and become retrospective, make dialogue with our inner poster and really engage in utopianic conversation within the hallowed spaces of this, your, Renegade Forums.

---