Quote: For instance any chemist knows how to poison the water supply of a major city and kill hundreds of thousands of people, but are they doing that, or are they working on finding cures for cancer etc?

But a chemist is making weapons of mass destruction. Take a look at Iraq for an example. Nukes? Sure, the energy is efficient, but it makes a hell of a "bang".

As for the cancer cure.

Sure it will be great to discover one. I never said I am against that. I smoke and I think that it'd be quite a discovery
