You're both being idiots. I don't understand how anyone can get mad at someone who's speaking English as a second or third language for making a couple slight errors. Yeah, it's an American board. So what? Am I going to get in trouble for typing 'colour' instead of 'color'? No one gives a shit, we all understood him. Also, I find it vaguely funny that you would go on to call someone else immature, DJM. You seem like a smart guy, so hopefully you'll realize that there are better and more productive ways of feeling superior than correcting the grammar of strangers.

I don't really have anything to say to mision8 that hasn't already been covered.
