That'd mean something if it didn't come from a guy who seems fixed on ranting and judging clans you don't know.

Besides what are you talking about? you think "What the hell would it matter? You can't be serious, can you? As if websites or the ability to type normally makes a difference in how good a clan can be, or its "integrity"." isn't being level-headed? You act like I'm practically shoving my keyboard against the wall or something. I'm acting as calm and cool as can be. As opposed to you making some big rant on why you generally hate all clans because of your own made-up stereotype
