This happens to me to, however not for 5 minutes. I timed my "freeze time" to one minute fourty seconds. (Feels like 5 Minutes though). THis started after the latest patch. the only way I figured out to get around it is to have ALL the maps that people are hosting.

I don't understand why this helps, but if I have all the maps, then it goes instantly to the advanced listing, however if I only am missing one map, then I get the "freeze effect". I just keep a notepad handy and write down the name of a map I don't have everytime this happens.
http://www.renmaps.com is a good place to get the maps to prevent this from happening.

Someone else that knows more about how Renegade works may have a more technical answer for you, and I would really like to hear the more technical answer if it is out there, but this is what I have found by trial and error.
