

---

Subject: Re: Religious Zealot forces airport take down Christmas Trees

Posted by SlikRik on Sun, 10 Dec 2006 14:31:13 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

Welcome to the world, full of idiots with wrinkly nutsacs and saggy tits who try and be attention whores by spoiling the world for everyone. What a faggot...

Now the Jews have a lot of laws within their religion, some kinda useful, some (imo) just kinda stupid, but there is no where in the Jewish religion saying it is against their law to look at, or be in a room with, or stand next to, or have any kind of interaction with symbols of other religions. So the guy who threatened to sue the airport has almost no argument. It's not against his religion, he might not like it, but that's too bad for him, go use another airport then.

If you wanna take it a step further, a Christmas tree is barely a sign of Christianity. Sure it's a sign of Christmas, but the commercialized version, not the true spirit of the Christian Christmas. Well sorry for not representing every other holiday, but if he would get his head out of your ass once in a while you'd realize Christmas trees are symbols of the holidays in general. I have some Buddhist friends who celebrate Christmas!!

I think people need to stop giving in to these attention whores just cuz they don't wanna deal with them. They should go to court with this guy just to shut him up. What would his case be? "Oh, well I don't like them." So? Go sit in a corner pisshead and stare at the wall so 1, you won't have to look at the Christmas trees, and 2, so you won't bother any of us normal people.

---