ahh the good ole hosts file. I am used to editing it on my dedicated servers but never much locally.

I attached the first minute of capture. Tell me if you need more.

I think the fix worked because it did skip members.lycos.co.uk and went to mitglied.lycos.de instead. So do we do the same thing for that site as Renguard is still crashing.

yeah right. please go on and add mitglied.lycosbla also to your hosts file and try again... if it still wont work add the next one to your host and so on..
and one minute of capture is enough. its enough if the query to this free web host is included!

i think the problem is somewhere else and stuff but please try this first. ill take a deeper look to it.

oh and btw. its really hard to help if youre here once a day or so. can you tell some time-range youre normally here?! or just give me some kind of messenger contact via PM or something? i would really like to try this a little faster so we can only post our solutions here thanks in advance and regards
