Kpoch you should start your own topic. This topic is about something different.

Now back on topic.

0x90 worked on this issue tonight and we came to a positive outcome.

We tested extensively to determine the problem and we recorded lots of traffic data. After much testing 0x90 created a workaround that seems to be working. He will polish it up and then release it.

Be glad to know that there is hope and most likely a solution too this problem.
