

---

Subject: Re: Confession of a Sinner.

Posted by Sniper\_De7 on Mon, 12 Mar 2007 19:15:34 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

cheekay77 wrote on Mon, 12 March 2007 14:09I didnt own myself.

Im taking action on what I did.

Im sitting off renegade for a bit, I need a break.

Im not owning myself-

All because i admitted i was changing my IP you have a different look on it?

How old are you? 12?

Its not cheating, ITs ban evading, Yes.

I will admit that.

Is it right? No.

They wont give me second chances, since most of the server owners dont listen, and ban ban ban, and never allow back in.

They dont care who you are, just another cheater to them.

So why should I care who they are?

And the people in this forum, who post something easily replied to without it being a flame, will see a true constructive conversation.

You keep flaming, I'll fight my way for it.

You keep the flaming small, Ill post something other then these last 8 idiot posts.

How do you *know* they wouldn't have given you a second chance? You really don't, do you? You just assumed. You see, if you were truly apologetic you would respect what the server owners want. Let's take a look at the records on cheaters and how many times htey said they were sorry, got unbanned, and then cheated again. They're PAYING for their server to keep it cheat-free. Do you think some people have the money to hope that you won't cheat again? There have been people that have been unbanned for cheating before, and it usually means what you did in the first post. But if you aren't going to respect their rules (ie ban evading) then why on earth would you deserve to belong there? (from their perspective) edit: ahh, you mean this-

"That "die" boink sound rocks

I like it, i would use it."

I see I had some merit in believing only a cheater would find a use for it

---