It could also be a memory problem.

I have a problem at the mo of constant fractional pauses when I run any 3d game, and indeed even on my whole system, unless I run task manager and shut every unnecessary task down..doesn't stop the game pauses though. Plus, the audio cracks up..

I'm gonna take my PC to my nearest shop and have them look at it. I believe they've just sold me crappy memory that has eventually stopped working properly, because i've diagnosed everything else..I fear the solution is to buy new RAM.

Just a possibility in your case
