I think, religion is not only used as "cover" for doing bad things (understatement).
I think it is also causing people to do bad things. Not everyone, definitely not, but I think some people, only a small group, are doing bad things because of religion. Yes, everything could, ofcourse, if you are so much liking to eat bananas that you think you can kill people to get more bananas, however I think there are many more people having religious reasons than the fact that they like bananas. Religion isn't the root of all evil, but I do think that it causes more evil to happen than bananas do.

Religion I think, it causing wars and problems on its own, it is not only used as a fake reason to get support for it. Which is what the thing I quoted said.
