Religion has caused more death, hurt, pain, suffering and wars then anything else in the entire history of man.

Still think it's so great?

People have caused more. Still think they're so great?

Religion is not evil Jake. I know you've been to church before. How often did they call for genocide on non-believers? It's the extremism that's evil, and that can be through several other processes such as political, race, or any other methodology of mass control. Some just choose religion because it can be manipulated easier. Spoony pretty much summed it up in his above post.
