THANK YOU

FFS people, what is so hard to grasp about the concept that a program will home in on a color? I've had a working one myself, and it was a good long time ago. Back when WSE first released the death adder program, people said it was junk, but people did not realize that they needed customized skins. Me and a friend tried it out, and he made us some pink skins, and behold, it worked. This was back in October. And I just cant help but want to reach out and slap these people who just keep thinking that it is not possible.

They are out there, but dont go calling everybody a aimbotter just because of that, I mean, ask for a screen shot first.

I am too tired to write on, but you get the idea
