Subject: Re: US bashing (I strike back)
Posted by Dover on Wed, 16 Jan 2008 04:19:52 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

R315r4z0r wrote on Tue, 15 January 2008 19:42OMG! I forgot!

Going back all the way up to Starbuzz's post about me getting "owned" and then saying get an education by going to wikipedia.

L.O.L.

That.. that is really all I wanted to say about that.

Edit:
Dover wrote on Tue, 15 January 2008 22:39Unless you can direct me to some evidence that I have done otherwise?
K, hang on..

Ok, the first paragraph of your first reply in this thread. Bashes Wingdingo on his argument. Basically sarcastically implying something that you harshly meant to say... or so it appears.

I don't want to get into any more nit-picky bashing that you did towards me, because the rest of your posts in this thread revolve around me almost 90% of the time.

Now Starbuzz on the other hand, bashes everything that he doesn't agree with. Much like he will find a way to bash what I am saying now. No, I'm not confusing bashing and flaming, because flaming is mindlessly insulting a person on the internet, where as he is using different faults and proofs to, not make the situation better or worse of, but to single out someone and flat out insult them for things that have either been said before from the victim, or just because he doesn't like the person. (Which is plainly obvious)

So, in 60something replys, out of which I can claim about 1/3 as my own, you found ONE example of me being sarcastic, POSSIBLEY implying that I MIGHT have something harsher to say but held back?

You're right. I'm a big-time basher.

Starbuzz, on the other hand, has used even more evidence and support in his posts, none of which are anything that can be called "bashing" by any of the defintions we've gathered here.

I hearby declare this thread over. We've squeezed what debate we could out of it, but now it's deteriored to bruised egos and getting defensive over e-honor.

Brace for Plecos spam.