I'd rather stick with Internet Explorer...Mainly because it's annoying having to setup and install another web browser.

Besides, my dad as I said aint to user friendly with comps. Although he still uses em he is a bit lacking in we browsing knowledge. He'd be pissed if I got a new browser without permission. And if I ask him before hand he'd just say no

It says on the Microsoft help site that it can be done with IE anyways.

Please can someone tell me how to block the files & settings. Or set it so he can't change em?

My school comps have millions of restrictions on em. I mean you cant even create a .txt document on Desktop it's so strict.

But amongst all this. The settings for IE in Tool>Internet Options have been removed. Obviously so I can't change the settings.
How can I implement this restriction to my Dads or anyones account?
I mean, me and him are Admins. But if I could remove the Internet Options tab from his IE, he wouldn't know how to undo it

How can I do this?

He is so annoying when he sets it up to record all the stuff iv been seeing then I change it and he puts it back

Oh and, when I change all the settings so there is 1MB save space allowed for Temp IE files, Days to record files in History=0 and Autocomplete all unchecked. It still records what iv been iv been going on when I click History icon @ top of browser...?
Couldn't I just change the Temp internet folder or it's name so it don't record my viewed pages, but in a folder somewhere he can't access?

Thanks,

bat66wat6