Exactly...I feel very very bad for this guy. So young and can't even walk outside all by himself. And no Renegade as well.

If this were to happen to me, I would just limp my way to the best of my abilities to some cliff and drop. Because I would become a unnecessary time/money-draining burden on my family and they would not deserve it.

It's either a full life or no life...no half-life. I speak for myself.
