My country pisses away so much cash into stupid ventures that would be better spent on future workforces. It might even lead to governments that don't suck.

I've found that students who take out government loans, work part-time, etc. to pay for their schooling are much better employees at my workplace. As well, I manage a couple apartment buildings, and they also make for better tenants. I think the lack of 'sheltering' is the reason, as they had to learn how to use their heads, and are much more in touch with the real world. Let's vote for the Communist party next time.
