It was Roberts who messed up; doesn't know how to read a sentence.

As far as topic goes, my thoughts reflect that of cheesesoda. I cannot believe how Obama is put on the holy throne of the known universe by the media.

Most think he is going to stop terrorism, get back the economy, lead the country into a prosperous era, and get milk and honey flowing again along with mountains of dollar bills.

This must be the most overhyped inauguration ever.

I think he a great person at heart and means well for the country but his great speeches have fooled everyone into thinking our problems can be easily solved.
