So, if this is a "cheat" why isn't there a scripts update that "undoes" the "cheat" that was added by the same people working on all the wonderful changes now... and what exactly does that say?

I was simply pointing out yet another reason why the community shouldn't be anxiously awaiting with open arms a forced modification to the game created by reverse engineering the code...

^^ shit like this will always pop up..

I guess the nod tanks that just magically "appear" under the bridge in city when they're being purchased should be considered a "cheat" too... and what cool feature was it that caused that to happen again?
