lol... that first part doesn't clean your RAM, it forces the OS to page things to the disk which will make all your other applications run slower until you reboot your computer. This is basically the same as what all those 'speed up your computer' viruses do. If doing that speeds up Renegade for you then you either need more RAM or you need to close some background programs.

As for the second part... if your running in fullscreen mode they will have no impact whatsoever, and when your running in windowed mode you could simply right click the exe file, go to compatibility tab and tick 'Disable Visual Themes' to turn off themes for just Renegade.
