tbh from what little u see rrutk. i dont think you get the whole picture

Exodus is a smaller server in terms of player count, but alot of players like the small intense games offered. Its the way i like to play renegade, rather than have 20ppl a side all shooting around (most being noobs )

i like the way it is and wouldnt want to change tbh. it would be nice to have a few more players playing renegade but TT isnt gonna fix the impact of time. I love renegade as its timeless, however many people want to move on, it will always happen.

rr if you want an accurate picture of exodus, actually play some games in there and get on TS. There are several people that use TS regularly, me being one of them. All things considered i have not expereinced a better gameplay feel that with the friends at Exodus so servers will not merge, it wont happen. and for you to call on a merge between 2 communities that have split, without even playing on one much is slightly naive.

Player count will not get better, we just have to manage with what we have and so far i am still liking it. altho if we could get a few more players that would be sweet
