paypal payment accepted.

I have no time to do stuff on it so, take your chance.

You know that the ones that are interested could also just wait for the domain to expire and then register it for <7euros?

They wouldn't even need to wait long, or you'd have to invest in it yourself first (to buy it till 2011). Basically what you're trying to sell is a domainname that'll be online for 2,5 more months and after that it needs another <7euros investment.
I'd rather wait.
