Subject: Much needed advice
Posted by Caveman on Fri, 10 Sep 2010 10:45:05 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Hey guys.

Where I work at Amazom.com a position for a IT tech has opened up and one of the requirements is knownledge of linux. The only time I have used linux is when my Ren server many years ago was on a Linux box.

So I need a quick crash course on Linux but I dont know where to start, which version I should use or anything. Would I beable to use something like VMware to install it.

I know there is a lot to linux and im not expecting to master it. I just need to know basics + network related stuff.

Does anyone have any suggestions on what I should do?