Quote:I like how he labeled Osama the Hitler of the 21st century. As if he is comparable to Hitler by any stretch of the imagination.

actually, both osama and saddam are comparable to hitler, but in slightly different ways. the only way in which they are not comparable to hitler is neither of them are anywhere near as powerful as nazi germany was at the time. saddam was equally mentally deranged as hitler was (towards the end anyway), and osama's level of murderous loathing towards quite a lot of other religions was on hitler's level towards the jews.

Quote:celebrating his death will just piss them off more and provoke more problems i made a point on a different forum that if anything is a genuine insult about the osama death situation, it is giving him an islamic funeral.

osama bin laden was hands-down the worst enemy of muslims all over the world. and i mean that quite literally. i don't mean some indirect way of making people suspicious of muslims; i refer directly to osama's ideology and method. osama had a murderous loathing of quite a lot of other religions - hindus, jews, christians, atheists - but the one demographic he despised above all other was non-orthodox muslims. if you were a shia muslim, osama and his cronies consider you fit for death. i'm going to repeat that for mudkips' benefit cos i think he doesn't know the faintest thing about osama: if you're the wrong kind of muslim, osama wants you dead. (forgive the present tense, don't look into that) if you're the "right" kind of muslim (sunni), then osama is content to slaughter as many shia as possible to incite a counterattack against you, in which case you have to join al-quada. and that, mudkips, is what's been happening in iraq for the last decade. no, bush is not directly responsible for the deaths of all the muslims in iraq; bin laden and zarqawi were.

bush was at pains to say that america was not at war with islam. ask bin laden if he's at war with "heretical islam" and his answer would be very enthusiastic.

Quote:I do have to agree, though. Mass celebrating of a person's death is just ridiculous. That, basically, makes us just like them...

when was the last time you heard an american seriously say that being a muslim meant you were fit to die?

osama said all the time that just being a particular religion (including and especially the wrong kind of muslim, as i said above) meant you will be and deserve to be killed. no, being happy about a mass-murdering genocidal megalomaniac's death does not make you the same as him, what the fuck are you smoking if you think it does? where on earth are your priorities?
