You just can't take criticism. Also, Aircraftkiller is right. You're taking credit for something EA/Blizzard made, even if you ported the thing, it's still owned by EA/Blizzard as the original creators, hence the copyright. They gave you permission to use it and most likely not even permission to SHARE it.

Besides that, what I have learned from many years on this forum and other forums is that people often think that the most shitty modifications are just awesome. Hardly any quality work is made for this game and people take the shit they get for granted.

Example of quality work on this forum: Aircraftkiller's Fjord map, Taz's map and other decent maps.

Example of shitty work on this forum: original textures with a camo pattern applied to them and the "creator" claiming it to be his own work. (And there are many more!)
