I think it's because what you're asking for is unrealistic. You might not like the direction their mod is heading, but they it's not like they aren't getting things done. They have their own vision of what the mod needs to be. Alright, cool. No need to cut their heads off when they make an error or 2 or because they don't take all of your opinions serious right away.

Yeah, acting childish will certainly help your case.

Renegade-x aint renegade, get over it dude.
