Im not trying to be negative for the sake of it! I still play ren and am involved with different communities, and want to see renegade continue living well into the future....plus i ran out of haterade after viewing the moronic posting of MDK

But my points, also made by others, havent been refuted. Unless the new community is bringing bach a metric fucktonne of players, theres no point of having it.

Spreading the dwindling player base more is not a good strategy...If anyone just decides to start up a server and take a few people away, are you all just gonna say 'meh gl'

I dont really understand why someone feels the need to worsen the ratio of server/players and that others think its a good think....

As i said, i dont want to have a go at anyone and im certainly far from angry....I just dont understand the rationailty behind a) starting it up and b) people thinking its a good thing... ive yet to see a postive reason
