Subject: My personal concerns, and opinions about 'RenGuard'.
Posted by Blazer on Fri, 12 Sep 2003 17:42:18 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

fl00d3dTO THE RENGUARD TEAM:

You guys are doing great work. I just posted to Crimson yesterday apologizing for some of the accusations I've made. I'm giving you the benefit of the doubt --- though we'll never really know for sure until the program is released and tested.

Please pick a side and stay with it. Every other day you switch from 'Okay I guess you guys are doing an okay job' to 'Ok now I will switch from helping the community to destroying the community'. We really don't care if you doubt us or not. RenGuard WILL be released. Servers WILL run it, and you WILL have to install it to play on said servers. If you insist on being paranoid and narrowminded then you can simply not install it or play on those servers. You have done nothing but bash us from day one that you came from nowhere, and frankly I'm tired of defending myself and the team against your ravings and comparisons of experience (yet you claim you are not bragging). I am 34 years old and have worked with computers since my first which was a Timex Sinclair 1000. I have had computer systems/network/security jobs all my life. I had a sysadmin job at my high school, I had one at my university, I had one for the state goverment, for Qwest Communications, and Cisco Systems. I have been compensated by several companies for doing penetration tests and doing security analysis. I have been alive on this earth over 10 years longer than you, and its safe to say I have more experience than you in almost any regard except apparently your skill at being obnoxious. Now that we have seen whose cock is bigger as far as experience goes, we can drop that subject.

fl00d3d
Please don't be offended by my post about BlazeRegulator coding. You know just as well as I do that Visual Basic is not a terribly difficult language to program in.

I'm not saying that you're not good at what you do or that BlazeRegulator is a bad program. I'm just saying that people shouldn't get all high and mighty on people like me with the same knowledge as you just because I haven't released a program. It's a cool utility.

Since when did Dante or anyone get high and mighty? YOU are the one that demanded to know the teams credentials. The fact that Dante, djlaptop, me, and mac have released programs to the community is simply an indication that we work FOR the community and have an interest in making things that people find useful, so its absurd to insinuate that we are untrustworthy and/or have alterior motives like stealing serial numbers. Its common knowledge that I was the one who exposed the first and only trojan released by FlyingBuzz that actually tried to steal serials, why would I want to steal them for myself? [/quote]

fl00d3d
Multiple groups are working on anti-cheats. To the best of my knowledge the RenGuard team is working on the most robust solution so give them your support. There will always be those that try to figure out a way around it, but if we work together we can quickly fix that.
~fl00d3d~

You tell the community to give us support, meanwhile make a post saying you are now going to destroy the community and make hacking theats...PLEASE CHOOSE A POSITION AND STAY WITH IT...WHAT IS WRONG WITH YOU?