I tell you... the "Primary" Reason that I don't install .Net by default is because.... well... it's 28 fucking MB in size..

When I'm at someone's house (or even my own) and I'm installing a fresh copy of win, connecting to the internet to do all the updates and going home for dinner, I have to decide.. do I want 36MB of Updates, or 64MB of Updates... It's a no-brainer really... dot what?

Eventually, I get around to it.. but not just because.
