SomeRhinoNobody is born a homosexual; that is a myth. Over 80% of homosexual males have a father that was abusive, neglectful, or left their family. There are also countless examples of straights turning homosexual and homosexuals turning straight during their lifetime.

And by what authority do you call someone wrong for saying homosexuality is wrong?

Moral relativism is full of loopholes that cannot be resolved.

It may not be an innate characteristic, but there has to be something that happens early in life or perhaps more likely in early childhood to influence this aspect of one's personality... Sure, one can make a choice to engage in homosexual acts, but how much can one help his or her attraction to someone? How can you decide who you like; what you like?
