Morality is a touchy issue. It's subjective, yet it's not at the same time. Some believe that morals are established through religion, and others just do what they believe to be right. The government works on both grounds, because the government is a democracy () full of people of different moral backgrounds.

Personally, I believe it is wrong to kill. My religion states that it is, and so do humanists. But when it comes to issues such as homosexuality, religion says it's wrong, and humanism says it's tolerable.

So we're at an impasse.
