It might just be because I don't think anyone here is going to do anything with them, and releasing them would be a pointless waste of effort on my part.

Seeing the utter bullshit excuses for lack of work to come out of this community, with only a few accomplished people who don't make up stories about how someone is destroying their online life in Renegade, there's no point to giving them out.

If people here can prove me wrong, hey, I'll package it all up and upload it to C&C Den so everyone can have them.

The chances of anyone actually finishing a fucking GOOD mod they started, or getting a level out without crying about how someone isn't kissing your ass, are slim to none.

Take this however you want, it comes through observation of how people act here over the past two years.

Beyond that, I already have a plan for them... They'll appear in Renegade Alert, that's all I have to say about the subject.
