Doesn't look too bad. Just the font that I think is a bit out of place, sort of blends together, needs more definition of the characters I'd say. I take it that it's a web design business? You having skills in ASP and that, just figured.

I've never been good at the creative/design side of things, so I stick to learning the programming behind things.

Not bad though, If you develop it more, it could look pretty good.
