That cutscene's awesome.

I have no clue whatsoever where that cutscene might be on the disk, but when you install it, it gives you the option to load the cutscenes to your disk, I think...I'd install it with that option and see what it gives you.

If that doesn't work, you could rig up a high quality digital camcorder to a tripod and stick it right in front of your computer monitor. Then, just record the cutscene a couple times with different lighting and stuff.
