

---

Subject: The Passion of the Christ

Posted by warranto on Sun, 14 Mar 2004 05:03:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

---

As the Germans learned. the best way to torture someone on a continuous basis is to get someone who loves doing it. The two people whipping/scourging Jesus, and the person in charge wouldn't have been at the hearing, as they would have, I'm guessing, only been called on if they were needed.

As for the moose, it would be hilarious to see. Human nature is to avoid conflict with things bigger than ourselves, plus he had no real way of dealing with it, so I'm not really prepared to say what would happen.

Again about the blood, don't quote me on it this. But I think that when you review the type of wounds Jesus did, the total amount of blood loss wouldn't be so bad after a while. If you noticed at the end, he was only dripping blood from the wounds, a few drop from his arm at a time. I'm only assuming that that's how they bled the entire time.

Edit: not trying to argue this point with you, but rather provide a possible alternative. Plausible or not.

---