da_shitzim not saying i suck...but i don't think that i should be considered lower than anybody because i havn't been using ps for very long. not saying that i should be lifted high either. it's too early to judge where i'll be at. if i'm better than some, so what, doesn't mean jack to me. I could have a white document with a 1 pixel dot on it and still be better than my brother.

i guess what i'm tryin to say is...everyone who says i suck...well then fuck you because i havn't had much time to learn. if you spent only 1 week in ps...i'd like to see your shit as good or better than mine. to all those who say i'm pretty decent...i don't really think i'm all that good, i think i've produced some quality work from the time i've been in photoshop, but i don't have enough skill or experience to be told that i'm good.

So what...

1) Your working with a company that designs graphics, the people buy graphics from you dont care if you only had one week of use on PS they would only care if your good or not.

2) When it comes down to it i had PS probaly longer than you, but i never used it. All together i probaly used PS for about 20 hours, but most of that time i just was messing with it making bull shit like this:

Not much eh, so how do i spend so much time making bull like this? Well i edited and edited it till i gave up and made a different one. Doign the same thing over and over only to make myself avatars. Nothing different only the same thing because i never knew how to do anything else. I didnt even touch a tutorial till like 2 weeks ago because i wanted to learn myself [ask Bawls]. I didnt get anywhere so i took Balws advise and used tutorials and actullay started learning stuff, though i was learning i still hardley used PS Spending less than 30min everyday. So i hardley use PS, still you use it more than me considering your part of a graphic design company so you probaly have more experiance than me. So its unfair to judge you, what about me huh? So quit complaining
