CrimsonOK, since RenGuard's launch, I have not sent a single global message. And the message on RenGuard when you launch is this:

Welcome to RenGuard, Blackhand Studios' anti-cheat software for Renegade!

Thanks for downloading RenGuard and supporting the community! We hope you enjoy many more years of cheat-free Renegade play!

Please visit RenGuard.com for any issues or questions.

I fail to see where this is a method of me controlling you. And let's also note that with over 2500 installs NOT ONE person has found anything untrustworthy about it. No trojans, nothing. We have done nothing to lose your trust.

The ability to send global messages on the RenGuard network is not a privilege that we will use often. During this initial launch, we have sent a few reminders for where to get help. We will also use the tool to announce upgrades. You'll be proven wrong as time goes on.

You've also done nothing to gain trust. The fact that you released unfinished software which can be easily bypassed, in my opinion, is untrustworthy.
