
Subject: It just takes time...

Posted by cheesesoda on Wed, 14 Apr 2004 23:53:46 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I am not kissing Crimson's ass, there'd be no need for it. I am however defending her and her network because I have found it to be a nice place to enjoy.

Do EVERY ONE of your posts have to have a swear word or a flame towards someone else?

Usually people have to make fun of people by saying they have "short comings," but that's usually in response to them having a short coming.

Just because I wanted to have a civil debate to keep flaming off of these forums, you decide you can flame me for wanting to debate. You are making fun of that because you know that you would lose so quickly so the only thing you know how to do is flame that idea.

You havn't been in NFD_Public so shut the fuck up. And since you've been living under a rock, NFD is just a membership saying that we hate you and other fucktards.
