CrimsonI agree that you shouldn't say "omg it works 100% it's impossible to bypass"... but you shouldn't go around saying that it sucks because "maybe someone could pass it"... If you tell us about an exploit we fix it. Every single time.

Yeah, it's annoying when you join a server and you get paged "I recognise you are running renguard, this will prove to any mods that you are not cheating if the need arises". It shouldn't be a means of proving, it should only be a means of "most likely, he/she isn't cheating, but you can't be certain." The general idea behind renguard would be better understood if people thought of renguard as more of a "shield" which can be broken a small amount of the time.
