Okay so soon my car will be completely street legal, after spending over $500 to tone down some of my previous performance mods so I can get it registered here in Arizona. I intend to get a personalized plate, but unsure of what to get, so I figured I would toss up some pics of the car, and see if you guys can some up with something clever that uses 7 letters or less

Since I said "contest", that implies winning something...so I will give a gmail account to the one that I like best, that is within the rules. What rules you ask? They are simple:

1. Must be 7 letters or shorter (this is a state rule).
2. You must verify that the plate is available BEFORE posting it. I don't want to say "wow thats a cool plate!" only to find that its already taken. Please pre-verify the availability of any submissions via: https://servicearizona.com/webapp/vehicle/plates/startChoice.do

Note that as far as license plates go, at least here, there is no difference between a 0 (zero) and an O (oh). In other words, if someone has the plate "N00B", you cannot register the plate "NOOB". They print the 0's and o's the same way

Now, when chosing a personalized plate, it usually helps to know something about the car or the person driving it. The pics should speak for the car itself, and as for me, well you probably know all you need to know already I work for Cisco Systems, and yes plates like "CISCO" are already taken

Now for the pics:

The full gallery is located here:
http://www.the-ownage.com/index.php?module=photoalbum&PHPWS_Album_op=view&PHPWS_Album_id=6&PAGER_limit=16

Here are a few I will post directly in the thread:

Yeah, I know its dirty and needs a good wash and wax...I plan on taking much better care of it once we move and I have a garage to put it in again.

Okay...put your thinking caps on, and create-a-plate! (wow that sounded cheesy   )

P.S. I think my favorite plate right now is one I just thought of: "IOWNYOU"

In Wisconsin you can have one space or a hyphend inplace of a character.

I have a friend when I was in high school that had BTCH-72 for almost 3 years before the DMV figured out what it meant. Then they suspended the plates and refused to reinstate them, forcing him to pay $80 for new plates and registration.

Did you know in Illinois you can't intermix letters and numbers?

It has to be like
GayGay1
or 1GayGay

You Can't Have N00BIE5...

I was on http://www.cyberdriveillinois.com reading about my ticket and I came accross that and was like wow that sucks.

Now that I have a new car, it's time to think about a personalized plate again, so I'm bumping this thread. Just a reminder about the rules:

1. Must be 7 letters or shorter (this is a state rule).
2. You must verify that the plate is available BEFORE posting it. I don't want to say "wow thats a cool plate!" only to find that its already taken. Please pre-verify the availability of any submissions via: https://servicearizona.com/webapp/vehicle/plates/startChoice.do

3. There is no difference between "zero" (0) and "oh" (O). So just because it says something like "n00b" is available, it may not be because someone has "noob" (flaw in their online app).

Again, DO NOT JUST MAKE UP ONES THAT YOU DIDN'T VERIFY IS AVAILABLE! READ THE RULES ABOVE! NO WE CAN'T GET EURO PLATES SO DON'T SUGGEST SOME LONGASS ONE

The dash is a lot better. The whole center is like a console that appeals to my inner geek. The speedometer isn't in the middle anymore, thank goodness.

Thanks

I was torn between the price of the Daytona, and the Look/Performance of the SRT8, in the end, the SRT8 got mine and my wifes vote

Too bad she took it to school this morning, means i have to wait a few hours to get it back

Holy crap that center console kicks ass, they have to start doing that on more vehicles.

My parents had a quest back in 98 and that thing was awesome. Everyone had their own personal chairs and A/C control. That was some big stuff back then and especially if you lived in Texas

Kudos Blazer on getting the Altima Coupe, I was hoping that was what you would get.

Crimson, I could never get over that middle console, especially with the shifter there. Does it feel very awkward, or is it more function before form?

I actually like it a lot. It's very gadget-y which is right up my alley. The whole driving experience feels very much luxury.
