I like the front grill grill. It resembles the old GT-500 Mustang

Now just to talk crimson into letting to get a mutang

"FFS Please Kristine , Everyone else cool has one.".

The Jaguar has superior top speed, but even my 1995 Mustang would outrun it in the quarter mile, and that counts most, as I doubt that even if you had the 900,000 to spend on one, you wouldn't be running it up to 220mph anywhere on the street

Nice to see that the finished production versions retained most of the looks of the radical concept models.

They made the cabin height of the Mustang taller. Which is pretty much it. Except for the obvious safety features and stuff.

The 1967 Shelby GT500 is and always has been my favorite car. Too bad it's highly expensive.
