I start my game with renquard all the time. And most of the times it says im not logged in when i am and im being kicked for it. I know its on because its right there by my clock and i start renegade up with it...whats with that?? Oh and even though i use renquard i was banned from AGN formally agamers from tbouncert without even !rglocate or testing me...

Never mind. I read it takes two hours for your name to show up, but by that time you can be banned or kicked 100 times. I have dial up and am not able to get high speed where I am located, so therefor I have limited hour limits before I pay big cash per hour. I can't wait two hours so i can play renegade without being called a "a cheating nazi" lol. There has to be another way to get your name on that list quicker.

Btw. I was quoting what I got called. No need for banning for racism I hope.

What happened was the database started to lag (I don't know the cause of that). As a result, there was a delay before it was able to register you as being active. It's not a normal occurance (though it does happen more often than it should [Blackhand team]), so it is nothing to worry about too much as it will eventually get caught up.
