I'm thinking about gettin together some banners and website designs to sell, but I'm not sure if it would work.

Here's a banner I made yesterday:

I'm not sure it if would really work since atm I have no way of selling them or anything like that.

Think I should try it?

Yeah, I'm kinda considering that now, ever since you asked me it's been lingering at the back of my mind making me think I can do something, surely.

DJM, it would be okay, but there's just too much animation.

Like it I do, but me thinks there is too much animation on it. Try for little moving lights and text that kinda glows up or something. I suck at giving descriptions.

It's too busy, you want banner animations to be subtle not extravangant. Nice start nevertheless, the graphic background looks like a good start.

I am to flash as you lot are to licking dog crap then running round the streets of  London naked shouting "BE FREE!".

-No chance.

I can't use flash for toffee.

Some Gif animation programs allow you to export to swf.
