I don't know why? But I got some wild hair to map in Ren. Here's some screenies of what I have done with it. I hope you like.

I'm thinking about adding some plants and stuff to hide and eye candy and the building would be eventually a tower. and there're two empty areas I am not sure exactly what I'm going to put there. Perhaps some spawn "home" points.

Oblivion165 wrote on Fri, 14 October 2005 08:31Nice, but land that smooth has to be high poly. Actually, it stayed pegged at FPS @ 60 most of the time. I used Heightfield to create the terrain. idebo wrote on Fri, 14 October 2005 07:55Makes me wanna play Renegade again. Though, those big trees could use some work.

Haha, I made those awhile back. A few branches I've been meaning to fix, etc.

Not really. My level Yavin Base is 60,000 polygons and I was getting 70 constantly. That's not just terrain, that's all the trees too which slows it down even more.

Would you include some (unteamed) Stealth generators too? I attached them here.

BTW, the Link in my signature shows the map Hybrid_Forest AFAIR, where the StealthGen is shown.

Yes, I never really knew how to model a decent tree. Lol.

Edit: As for the palm trees, no. Those came from the Hourglass template.

Seems a lot of us are the the "tree themed mapping" mood. I'm working on a map that playing in high tree tops

Ofcourse I am never good at modeling so I skipped the actual "leaves" part of a tree for now...
