Ok I recently purchased a second hard drive, I decided to put renegade on it. I un installed renegade and when I was installing it the installer crashed. After fiddling with it for an hour i determined that it was the disk that was the problem. (I can see light through the disk and when looking for certain files on-disk windows explorer crashes.) The problem is, i just spent all my money on the hard drive so i cant buy renegade for even the price of 5$.

Any suggestions?

Lol i just read your message. Then i looked at the message your signature. LOL   .....

anyway, things you should try:

1) Try it on another computer.
2) I remember one of my friends have trouble with his Yuri's Revenge cd, he changed the compatibility of it, and it worked.

cant think of anymore at the moment, if i do i will respond again.

Pirate the game and use your CD key. It'll still work.

Cant really try it on another computer, we only have two that are good enough/have enough room to play/install renegade. The other one has it on and i dont want to mess it up.

I copied some stuff from the other computer so, now renegade works. But..... whenever i want to log into WOL/XWIS it sais my serial number has been marked invalid.

I remember seeing a file somewere and you could manually enter in your serial number. Anyone know what one it is?

lol icedog, whats the problem with my avatar, i host it on my own upload space.
And i dont think you understood my 1st message, in his signature it says 'thats life'.

I said i read your post, then the message in your signature.
My renegade has screwed up.....well thats life....

lol i thought it was funny, but thats just me, i was probably drinking some jimmy when i wrote that

It means people who have slow internet connections have to wait forever for that to load.

People with slow connections can turn avatars and signatures off if they want to by going to User CP -> Settings and scrolling all the way down as shown below:
